Announcements

WKCE Testing: November 5, 6, and 7th 3rd-grade students at Pioneer will be taking the WKCE (Wisconsin Knowledge and Concepts) Test. This is usually a very intensive test for 3rd graders because they have had no experience with this type of testing before. They will be tested in the areas of Reading and Math. The tests are pretty rigorous for most students. It is really important for students to get a good night's sleep and a healthy breakfast all school days, but even more so on these testing days so that they have the stamina and concentration needed to do their best. Students will be receiving a milk/snack break during the testing time. The milk is provided by the school. I am in need of parent volunteers to provide the healthy snacks on testing days. Please let me know if you are interested. Thanks in advance for your help and support.

News About Reading: I am so impressed with the gains being made in reading. I will be using our reading time next week to reassess several students. Students will still have nightly reading homework, but their books will be books they have self-selected out of their browsing baskets at school. If you notice that the book your child is reading at home isn't a good fit, remind them about picking Good Fit Books for their browsing baskets on their checkout day in the classroom. Ask them to make a new selection for the following night. Thanks for your help monitoring this at home.
