Alissa Davis Announced as Parkview Associate Principal

Ashwaubenon, WI – April 11, 2025

Alissa Davis, currently the Reading, Assessment, and Differentiation Specialist at New London Intermediate-Middle School, will become Associate Principal of Parkview, on July 1, 2025. Davis was hired, following the promotion of Michael Heim to Curriculum Director, effective July 1.

“I am beyond excited and completely honored to be joining the Ashwaubenon team! Throughout this interview process, I could feel the passion and culture of the Parkview Middle School radiate through staff, leadership, and most importantly, the students”, says Davis.

This marks Davis’ tenth year in education. She began her career at Berlin Middle School, where she taught 7th and 8th grade ELA (English and Language Arts). For the past three years, she has been the Reading, Assessment, and Differentiation Specialist at New London Intermediate-Middle School. Her passions include secondary literacy, inclusion, MTSS (Multi-Tiered System of Support), and a commitment to continuous learning and striving to be the best humans we can be.

Principal, Kris Hucek, had this to say “In all 3 interviews, one of which included a student panel, Alissa’s passion for working with middle school students came through loud and clear. Her energy and positivity is contagious. It is clear that she lives what she believes and one of her core beliefs is that we need to have high expectations for our students because they will rise to the challenge, with our support. We are looking forward to her joining our team and making a difference in the lives of students and staff”.
